Wondering what the differences are between the various membership categories? Here is a quick summary of the options. Each level covers all members of a household.

Introductory – you get your first year of membership in BJC free. When Introductory members attend events they are considered Full members. Introductory memberships are open only to residents of Bedford.

Associate – usually chosen by those who want to support BJC and stay connected but generally don't plan to attend any events. If Associate members do attend events, they pay a slightly higher entry fee for that event.

Full – this is the most frequently chosen level of membership. Full members pay the minimum fee, if any, for the events they attend.

Sustaining – same as Full membership, but contributing a bit extra per year.

We hope this information helps.
